Retirement Contributions

Traditional IRA

Does your employer offer a retirement plan (box 13 on W2)

yes no

If your employer offered a retirement plan you will not receive any benefit from contributing to a traditional IRA – however there are exceptions based on your income level. If you are interested in learning if you qualify please feel free to ask.

Traditional IRA's provide two benefits:

- They reduce your current tax liability
- They provide funds for your retirement

Amount to contribute: _____ (you must make this prior to April 15th)

The tax savings for a Traditional IRA are immediate. Any contribution you make will lower your taxable income by your tax rate. Therefore, if your tax rate is 25% you will save $250 for every $1,000 you contribute

Roth IRA

If your employer offers a retirement plan and your total household income is less than $184,000 (married) or $132,000 (single) you may contribute to a Roth IRA.

Amount to contribute: _____ (you must do this prior to April 15th)

There are no immediate tax savings on a Roth IRA – however when you withdraw your money later in life you will not have to pay tax on that money plus any interest that has been earned on that money. Therefore, if you contribute $1,000 and that money grows to $5,000 over the next 30 years you will not have to pay tax on the $5,000 when you withdraw it.

RRSP

This only applies if you filed a Canadian tax return.

RRSP's are tax deferred savings plans for your retirement (similar to a traditional IRA). RRSP contributions are different for each individual and are determined by your income. If you are interested in making a RRSP contribution you need to make it prior to the February 28th deadline.

Yes I'm interested please call me
